

ETHOS

LEADERSHIP GROUP, LLC

Image, Credibility, Ethics

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

Angela N. Huffman

Angela Huffman is a Senior Executive Coach for Ethos Leadership Group, LLC, an executive coaching and employee training consultancy with clients from corporate businesses, institutions of higher learning, non-profit organizations, and political campaigns.

Angela has a rich background in cross-cultural communication, gender communication, community-building through communication, and critical rhetoric. She leverages her knowledge and experiences to enhance cross-cultural understanding and communication in her clients.

Angela currently teaches in the Ohio University system. She is a sought-after instructor in courses such as Public Speaking, Mass Communication, Intercultural Communication, and Persuasion.

Prior to joining the Ohio University system, Angela taught in the West Virginia University system. Angela taught conversational English and coached students for the Provincial English Speaking Competition while serving as an instructor at Wuhan Polytechnic University (Wuhan, China).

Angela has interned for a health initiative in the African country of Botswana, served as assistant director of a university honors program, performed employee recruiting for a professional placement firm, and studied art history in Italy.

Angela is completing a doctorate in Communication Studies from Ohio University. Angela earned her master's degree in Communication Studies Research and Theory from West Virginia University.

Angela is married to Cam. When not teaching or working with Ethos, Angela enjoys yoga, trying her hand at various art and decorating projects, and watching movies and traveling with Cam.